Dear Ministers

Concern about the future of the extractive industries in Madagascar

We, the undersigned representative of civil society, are writing to share our profound concern about Madagascar’s future.

There is a high risk that expansion of and investment in the extractive sector in Madagascar will fall prey to abuse and corruption if environmental monitoring and reporting mechanisms between operating companies and the Malagasy regulator, the Office National pour l’Environnement (ONE), are not urgently strengthened.

We draw your attention to the case of Rio Tinto/QMM’s mine operation in Anosy, southern Madagascar. Please see the attached briefing, “Mining risks involving the environmental regulator in Madagascar: urgent need for remedy” and its annexes. In this case the company states that the environment regulator, the ONE, has ruled that the illegal breach of a protective environmental buffer zone, by as much as 90 metres beyond what was an already reduced limit (the statutory limit of 80 metres reduced to 50 metres) has “negligible” impact.

The buffer zone breach broke national laws and agreements and poses serious risk to the well-being of local communities. Rio Tinto/QMM has been unable to evidence whether elevated uranium levels found in the water around the mine – as high as 50 times World Health Organisation safe drinking water guidance in some places – are due entirely to natural “background radiation”, as the company claims, or if this is at least partly a result of the mining operation and buffer zone breach.

Despite the breach and concomitant risks, the regulator, the ONE, which is responsible for protection of the environment and citizens in Madagascar, has taken no regulatory action. For full details please see the briefing attached.

Rio Tinto has a fiscal and contractual relationship with the ONE for monitoring and evaluation of the QMM mine. In 2018 the company claimed it was “compliant” with its 2014-18 Social and Environmental Management Plan (SEMP). It reinforced this position by claiming that the ONE considered there were “no significant concerns” presented by the buffer breach (25 September 2018) and later, publicly in 2019, that the breach had “negligible” impacts. However, neither the ONE nor Rio Tinto/QMM has been willing to make available the studies or reports undertaken by the ONE that determine the QMM breach to be compliant against the authorised SEMP, or the impact to be “negligible”.

Rio Tinto is one of the world’s largest mining companies and therefore likely to influence the expanding sector in Madagascar. This case therefore demands urgent attention. The governance gaps and failings that the case highlights must be addressed – not just for the citizens of Anosy, but to ensure the Malagasy mining sector meets good standards of international practice in order to protect the future of our country and its population.

We respectfully request that you, the Malagasy Ministers responsible, urgently convene a roundtable dialogue at the highest level and with the inclusion of affected communities and civil society to address gaps in the current implementation of the MECIE Decree.¹ These gaps at present allow operating companies to pay for assessments/evaluations of their operations by the ONE without due transparency, public participation and accountability provisions. The objective must be that all recent and future studies, data and reports produced by the ONE for, and paid for by, operating companies are made fully accessible and available, including permanent and free-to-access online publication, for thorough and transparent public scrutiny.

We write in a spirit of solidarity with all who wish to see the environment of Madagascar protected, its peoples safeguarded from exposure to harm and hazard, and its future developed with a meaningful commitment to good governance.

In the same spirit, and with respect for the inclusive processes of the Malagasy Government, we will send a copy of this letter and the attached briefing to Chair Helen Clark and Executive Director Mark Robinson of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI), to civil society members of the international EITI Board, to senior executives at Rio Tinto and to other relevant actors.

Yours respectfully

Herinarahinjaka Eryck Randrianandrasana
Coordonnateur National
CEM Projet Taratra – Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez Pay Madagascar
herinarahinjaka@gmail.com; +261 347 706 300

Eric Raparison
Coordonnateur National
Solidarité des Intervenants sur le Foncier, Madagascar

Amour Jacquelin Rajaonarisona
Président
Société Civile Tolagnaro Plateforme (Anosy), Madagascar

Ndrantomahefa Razakamanarina
Président
Plateforme Alliance Voahary Gasy, Madagascar

Anitry Ny Aina Ratsifandrihamanana
Directeur Pays
WWF Madagascar

Mamy Rakotondrainibe
Présidente
Collectif pour la Défense des Terres Malgaches, Madagascar

Zo Randriamaro
Coordinatrice
Centre de Recherches et d’Appui pour les Alternatives de Développement – Océan Indien, Madagascar

Lilia Ravoniarisoa
Coordinatrice
Femmes en Action Rurales de Madagascar

Louis de Gonzague Razafimanandraibe
Président
Organisation de la Société Civile pour les Industries Extractives, Madagascar

Razafindralaha Rower Belaza
Président
Syndicat de Professionnel de Mines de Madagascar

Organisations soutenants

Amida Tchamdja, Action pour la Promotion et le Développement intégral de la Femme et de l’Enfant, Togo
S. Tserenpurev, Administrative New Initiation, Mongolia
Yvonne Orengo, Andrew Lees Trust, United Kingdom
G. Chagnaadorj, Ariun Suvarga, Mongolia
Pius Kossi Kougblenou, Association pour l’Autopromotion des Communautés de Base, Togo
D. Dalgbén Pocanam, Association de Sauvegarde du Couple Nature-Homme, Togo
Kessina Wonegou, Association Togolaise pour le Bien-être de la Population
Manson Gwanyanya, Business & Human Rights Resource Centre, United Kingdom/United States/South Africa/International
Koffi Dela Kepomey, Centre Afrika Obota, Togo
Afua Kafui Esseh, Cercle d’Actions pour le Développement et l’Epanouissement de la Femme et de l’Enfant, Togo
Olena Pavlenko, DiXi Group, Ukraine
Habte Hagos, Eritrea Focus, United Kingdom
Craig Bennett, Friends of the Earth England, Wales and Northern Ireland
Rahul Basu, The Future We Need, India
Jim Footner, Global Witness, United Kingdom
L. Bor, Ikh Baga Bayan Sharga, Mongolia
Maurice Ouma Odhiambo, Jamaa Resource Initiatives, Kenya
Essoklnam Pedessi, Jeunes Verts, Togo
Xavier Dias, Khan Kanij aur Adhikar (Mines, Minerals and Rights), India
Emmanuel Sogadji, Ligue des Consommateurs du Togo
Richard Solly, London Mining Network, United Kingdom
Jamie Kneen, MiningWatch Canada
J. Uuriinjin, New Settlement Healthy Environment, Mongolia
B. Bayarmaa, Patrons of Khuvshul Lake, Mongolia
Tijah Bolton-Akpan, Policy Alert, Nigeria
Françoise Gnofam, Programme d’Appui à la Femme et à l’Enfance Déshéritée, Togo
Dr Michel Yoboue, Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez Côte d’Ivoire
Caroline Avan, Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez France
Abdoul Wahab Diakite, Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez Mali
Jean Claude Katende, Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez République Démocratique du Congo
Thérèse Mékombé, Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez Tchad
Pius Kossi Kougblenou, Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez Togo
Emily Nickerson, Publish What You Pay Canada
Kristina Lie-Hagen, Publish What You Pay Norway
Miles Litvinoff, Publish What You Pay United Kingdom
Filmona Hailemichael, Publish What You Pay United States
Geneviève Thériault-Lachance, Rights and Accountability in Development, United Kingdom
Issoyoxtou Kabissa, Réseau des Femmes et Développement des Savanes, Togo
Ali Idrissa, Réseau des Organisations pour la Transparence et l’Analyse Budgétaire – Publiez Ce Que Vous Payez Niger
N. Narantstesteg, Save the Mother Nature Mongolia Foundation
Phil Jones, SJ Around the Bay, Australia
B. Bayarmaa, TAN Coalition – Publish What You Pay Mongolia
Essivi S. Acakpo-Addra, Women Environmental Programme Togo